Laura's Thoughts

Welcome back to a new school year! I could have never imagined a year like the one before us. There is so much uncertainty right now with the opening of schools. Yes, students need to get back in the classroom, but it must be done in the safest way possible. That is the message we are all hearing. It's hard to say what the right answer is, but I believe that teachers have the strength and resilience to get through this difficult time. I know we have all had to change our way of doing things in the classroom, and our usual routines don't seem to work quite well in this situation. I know for me, as a school librarian, I have had to make a few adjustments, but in my mind, it's worth it if I can still have the opportunity to get students excited about reading and giving them the tools they need to access books. I truly believe that this is our time to shine, and that we have what it takes to help our students achieve success whether it's face-to-face or through virtual learning. We can do this together one day at a time or should I say one Zoom at a time!

Directed Drawing & Zoom Tips

Join in on the stress-busting relief that directed drawing can bring at our September meeting! Epsilon Rho member, Sara Simmons, will be leading us in a directed drawing experience that is sure to bring some stress relief. Allison Sutton, Epsilon Rho member, will also be sharing zoom tips for educators. This should help bring stress levels down as we can better prepare for Zooming with students in the year ahead. So, grab your paper, pencils, crayons and markers and be ready for a fun meeting!
